From the advent of the Space Bowl a single person body ride created in the early 1980's, Bowl rides have become a waterpark staple all over the world. With the original design riders would accelerate down a steep tube before entering the bowl at a high level. Their momentum would allow them to spin round the inside of the bowl, completing several circuits, before slowing and sliding into a splash pool below.

Recent developments have taken this ride from a single person body slide into a two and four person tube ride with precision engineered runouts replacing the splash pool.

Traffic light control system, sound, light and water affects can be incorporated into the ride to enhance the guest experience
